Many of us are suddenly being asked to conduct the rest of this semester's classes online. How do we make this mode of instruction student-centered? How do we listen to students remotely? How do we poll them? How do we look over their shoulders at the work they are doing? How do we ensure equity in this technological regime? This special meeting of ESME will gather a panel to lead a discussion about these and other questions that many of us are struggling with.

Noon ET, March 17 , 2020
